

Do you want to help Tucson's transportation future? Are you interested in making our streets safer, more accessible, and more comfortable for pedestrians, bicyclists, public transportation users, and motorists? Do you want to help implement Tucson's Complete Streets program?

If so, the City of Tucson is looking for volunteers to participate in the Complete Streets Coordinating Council, a new public committee that will help guide transportation investments over the next 25 years, review transportation projects to shape the way our streets look to ensure they are meeting the needs of everyone, and help the City engage other members of the public about transportation issues.

Who?

The City of Tucson is looking for interested members of the public with a background in one or more of the following as they relate to transportation to help implement our Complete Streets Program.

- Safety
- Accessibility for All Abilities
- Equity
- Land Use and Sense of Place
- Environment
- Health and Recreation
- Economic Vitality
- Transportation and Mobility

What?

The Complete Streets Coordinating Council is a 20-member City of Tucson Transportation Committee that will be representative of the city's diverse perspectives and backgrounds.

The Coordinating Council will meet monthly to provide oversight and guidance to the implementation of the City of Tucson's Complete Streets program and development of a 25-year long-range transportation plan.

Members will be expected to attend all meetings and actively participate in Coordinating Council activities. It is currently expected that members will have a monthly time commitment of around 2 hours, not counting travel to and from the meeting location.

If you are interested in applying to be a member of the Coordinating Council, please use the following link to submit your application.
